Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a tendency to close, and the hearing is impaired. It is a common condition, and it is often the result of a cold or a sinusitis. It is a condition that can be cured by the use of the Eustachian Tube. The Eustachian Tube is a tube that connects the middle ear with the back of the nose. It is a tube that is often inflamed, and it is often the result of a cold or a sinusitis. There was a glut of peaches at the New York markets last week. The fruit was coming in carload lots faster than they could be handled by the market. The result was that peaches were cheap for a day or two and the peach growers suffered a big loss in the shipments.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunt arrived home at Thursday Aug. 26 from Kansas City. Several friends went to the midnight train to give Dick and bride a cordial greeting but the night was a little cool and they were sleepy. The result was that Mr. and Mrs. Hunt got to town O. Chautauqua's Overworked? The editor of the Brookfield Argus says of chautauquas:

The Chautauqua has been overworked. As it is in Boone county no doubt it is in about every county in Missouri, likewise here in Linn.

For years the Meadville Chautauqua flourished. It was original with Meadville, in so far as Linn county is concerned. The whole county, or at least that portion of the populace fond of such entertainment, turned out to the Meadville Chautauqua.

But the Chautauqua promoter is a busy fellow. He knows how to convince the people of most any town that their long felt want is a chautauqua. And he generally gets a contract. Fortunately, Brookfield has not fallen for the Chautauqua. But three other towns in the county have. Result, it has been seriously overworked, just as it has been throughout Missouri.

And that is the reason it becomes necessary for our friends over at Columbia and elsewhere to "go down" into their pockets, as the esteemed Tribune says. There is only room for one Chautauqua in any county in Missouri. One is enough; that is, to be successful.

They Were Running Away

Wednesday afternoon August 25 Marshall White received a message from Keytesville asking him to intercept two girls who were running away from home, bound for Breckenridge. Mr. White immediately started to the Wabash depot but met the girls coming up the hill; and took them in charge. The father of one of the girls was notified, and he came up on the next train after them and took them home with him. He said a vaudeville star had met his girl in Keytesville, had promised her jewelry and all kinds of presents and she had started to Breckenridge to join him. They went home without resistance.—Carrollton Democrat.

Thirsted For Gore

"Grandma" Childs became more than irritated at an item that appeared in the Courier last week. It seems that something got beneath the skin. And, in retaliation, the editor, one of the lowliest of the pillars of one of our churches, deliberately and in blood-thirsty manner, with malice afore thought, threatened to "cut the throat" of the junior editor of the Courier. And there were several good church brethren and others, not so good, who looked on and seemed to enjoy the prospect of the shedding of human gore. Too bad. They were disappointed.
